ATTENTION CAPITALISTS
IN THE CITY OF WASHINGTON

Will be sold on THURSDAY, July 30, 1863, for the work ending Saturday the 26th day of July, 1863.

The estate of the late Daniel Clegg, the rich estate known as "Fouma," the late residence of the deceased, situated about 44 miles north of Washington, is immediately on 7½ acres of land, bounded by the Turnpike and Washington roads, and accessible by any of the public roads leading to Washington north. It contains about 300 acres which will be divided into three parts containing 300 acres, more or less.

Fouma is immediately adjoining the estates of the Hon. P. Blair and the Hon. Montgomery Blair, and the residence of the late General George C. Scott, and the residence of the estate of G. W. Biggs, Esq., and Mrs. Marshall Brown, esp., and other citizens of Washington, and at a convenient distance from several clusters of different dealers in slaves.
